8. ASSESSMENTS

8.1 METHOD OF ASSESSMENT

Each module is assessed as follows:

Formative Assessment 1 – These are online assessments. These assessments are in the form of multiple-choice questions, true/false or a combination of both. The knowledge check quiz assesses your understanding of key concepts and theories and is designed to stimulate active and self-managed learning.

Formative Assessment 2 – This assessment is based on a case study/scenario which requires calculations and/or application to the relevant theory. This provides you with a feel for the complexities of the working world and allow the theories, models and research to be applied in practice.

Online Summative Assessment – This is an open book assessment that is similar in nature to the traditional examination. The main premise for an open book assessment is to allow you to answer in more critical and analytical ways, thus encouraging higher order thinking skills. An open book assessment assesses the understanding of the learning outcomes of the module and assesses the ability to understand and provide innovative solutions to complex challenges.

Assessment type	Contribution to final mark	Sub-minimum requirement	Number of Attempts
Formative Assessment 1 (Knowledge Check Quiz)	10%	1.Compulsory completion 2. At least 50% (20/40) across Formative Assessment 1 and 2	Two (2)
Formative Assessment 2 (Case Study/Scenario)	30%		Two (2) (Only if subminimum in this assessment is not met)
Online Summative Assessment	60%	40%	Two (2) (Only if subminimum in online summative assessment is not met and/or final mark is less than 50%)

8.2 HOW TO PASS A MODULE

To pass a module the following requirements must be met:

- the compulsory completion of ALL assessment activities;
- the sub-minimum requirements as outlined above
- a final combined mark of 50%

You will be expected to attempt the online summative assessment, only if the subminimum requirements, as outlined above, have been met. The onus is on you to confirm that you have met the subminimum requirements for the formative assessments prior to attempting the online summative assessment. If you have not met the subminimum requirements for the formative assessments, you will be required to re-register for that module. MANCOSA will not be responsible for students attempting the online summative assessment without meeting the formative assessment subminimum requirements.

NB: All assessment components for all modules are compulsory. Should you fail to attempt any of the assessment components you will be required to re-register for that module in the next registration intake.
